

Hands on!

4 digits separate your private or sensitive items from public access

With Code Handle®, personal belongings, sensitive client files or storage materials are easy to separate from public areas.

Code Handle works with an electronic PIN code. "This way" only authorised people, like staff, can unlock the door. Press the code on the handle's keypad and the door opens. Code Handle works together with your existing locking unit, so you can keep your cylinder or lock and simply upgrade your handle to a battery-powered Code Handle. No need to cable the door or connect it to the mains. No need to install an electronic access control system. Adding Code Handle to your door adds security and convenience to your private rooms within public areas.

Hands off!

How do you protect your belongings in public spaces?

You don't have eyes in the back of your head. It's impossible to keep watch over every private door in a public-facing space — the store room in a retail shop or pharmacy, or a toilet for staff use only.

You need Code Handle: it stands guard for you.

Did I lock the door?

Rooms with high traffic can become a security risk

Sure, you could put a key-operated lock on every door. But then you'd need to keep track of all your keys and remember where they are at all times. Chasing down the keys that open busy doors can be a full-time job! The solution is the simple, affordable Code Handle.

Easy to handle Give your doors an upgrade
